Creating Age-Defying Smiles

Next time you're standing in front of a mirror brushing or flossing your teeth, take a moment to analyze your smile. Instead of wishing aspects of your smile were different—whiter teeth, closed gaps, no chips or stains—make a commitment to change it. The smile you've been trying to hide for years may only take hours to transform into the smile you want to show off, thanks to the latest advances and techniques in cosmetic and restorative dentistry.

Although they lead separate practices across the Dallas area, the four members of North Texas Cosmetic Dental Associates share a common goal—to create age-defying smiles for their patients. With an understanding that their patients have hectic schedules and don't have time to drive across town for a dental appointment, these dentists office in all corners of the Dallas area so that patients can easily and conveniently reach their offices.

"Each doctor in this organization has invested in the latest technology and has designed his office with the patient's comfort and utmost satisfaction in mind, so that achieving a new smile is a positive experience from the initial consultation to the day they greet the world with their new smile," says Joseph Miranda, D.D.S.

While regular dental check-ups and general dental care are important, the dentists in this group have always felt their patients needed more in order to feel good about their smiles. Therefore, each dentist specializes in cosmetic dentistry. Jerry Dunn, D.D.S. says that in order to take the guess-work out of what cosmetic dentistry can do for their patients, he and the other dentists in the group offer cosmetic dental imaging which allows patients to actually see on a computer screen what their smile will look like on them before they have dental work done. In fact, patients can "tell their stories" about the smile they want on video, which is sent to the lab professionals who will actually design and make the veneers.

"This creates a unique opportunity to personalize the process," says Gregory Lutke, D.D.S. "It's important for the patient and the dentist to work together when designing the smile in order to achieve an optimal result."

Using computer imaging, state-of-the-art equipment, advanced training, and a working knowledge of the latest techniques in cosmetic dentistry, each smile is crafted individually for each patient with the most natural-looking results in mind.

"Rather than looking as if you've had your teeth 'done,' you'll just look like you've been blessed with great genetics," says David Anderson, D.D.S. "As we age, our teeth can become discolored, crooked, or chipped, making you look older than you feel. Creating a beautiful, age-defying smile takes artistry, training, and expertise. Each doctor in this organization possesses the ability and passion to give their patients the smile they've always wanted."
